About Trees for Life

Trees for Life is a Scottish charity standing at the forefront of rewilding in the Scottish Highlands. Hopeful and bold, we are committed to creating nature-rich landscapes that include and support people. Working on a grand scale, we aim to close the gap between people and nature.

With a focus on Scotland's spectacular Caledonian forest, we foster biodiversity and encourage natural processes essential to life. From the iconic red squirrel to the elusive lynx, we are working to bring more life back to our landscapes.

Rewilding is a shared journey. Together with communities, we are restoring Scotland's natural and cultural heritage while supporting local livelihoods. Join us on this path of hope and positive action - rewild the Scottish Highlands.

We are Bold

We are an ambitious charity with a critical purpose. For us, being bold means thinking about landscape restoration on a grand scale, embracing innovative rewilding methods and challenging the status quo.

We are Collaborative

Our approach, deeply rooted in community and collaboration, involves working closely with local communities, conservation groups, landowners, and volunteers.

We are Pragmatic

We embrace pragmatic and sustainable solutions in everything we do. We are always mindful of our duty to our supporters, our volunteers, our staff and above all to Scotland's wild forest. By adopting practical solutions, we safeguard our efforts and ensure a resilient future for our initiatives.

Experience the Dundreggan estate and Rewilding Centre

Just eight miles from the shores of Loch Ness, the Dundreggan Rewilding Centre is a gateway to Trees for Life's 10,000-acre Dundreggan estate.

Rewilded by Trees for Life since 2008, Dundreggan is home to more than 4,000 kinds of native plants and animals, including many rare and protected species. Visitors can enjoy Scotland's regenerating Caledonian forest through exploration of ancient pinewood and unique juniper forest, discovery of centuries of Gaelic history, and connection with a landscape undergoing transformation through rewilding.

Opened in Spring 2023, the Dundreggan Rewilding Centre is a state-of-the-art venue nestled into a wild landscape brimming with natural and cultural heritage. It offers an immersive experience into the natural and cultural heritage of the Highlands, promoting a deeper understanding of rewilding through activities and engagement.

What is rewilding?

Rewilding is a process led by nature and facilitated by humans to create, protect and expand native habitats including a variety of woodlands, heathlands and peatlands – and it supports the animals that call those habitats home.

We believe rewilding is about working with nature not against it, following natural processes and seeing human activity as part of an intricate system in which everything is connected. The benefits of rewilding include nature's recovery, climate change mitigation, and improved livelihoods and wellbeing.

Rewilding requires us to be bold in our approaches – we must all be driving towards leaving landscapes in better health than we inherited them so that we are all better able to face the challenges of the future.

Team building in nature

Reconnect, recharge, and grow together in nature.

At Dundreggan Rewilding Centre, we believe that the most effective teams thrive when they step away from their usual environment and immerse themselves in nature.

Our team-building experiences are designed to inspire creativity, improve communication, and strengthen relationships - all while contributing to Scotland's wild landscapes.

With first-class facilities and beautiful surroundings, the Rewilding Centre is the perfect venue for team meetings, team building, training days and conferences.
